

T: Heads of Institutions

Date: November 14, 2017

From: Kenji Yoshida
Director-General
National Museum of Ethnology (Minpaku)
National Institutes for the Humanities (NIHU), Japan
(An Inter-University Research Institute Corporation)

Re: Recruiting for new faculty position

The National Museum of Ethnology has an opening for a new member of our faculty. The position is described below. We respectfully ask that you circulate this information and encourage suitable candidates to apply.

1. This position is for one new faculty member at the rank of assistant professor.
2. The appointment is for five years (No renewal of the contract. Note that the selected candidate will be employed as a tenure-tracked faculty (full-time employee with limited term contract). There is a possibility of change to an associate professor position with an unlimited term contract depending on an assessment of research achievements and museum activities at Minpaku before completing the term of five years.

* If the selected candidate has ever been employed by NIHU on a limited term contract, his/her appointment at Minpaku may be less than five years.

Reference: Regulations governing employees of NIHU and Minpaku.

See our website: <http://www.minpaku.ac.jp/offer/>

3. Academic discipline is humanities of Africa (cultural anthropology, ethnology, and the related fields including area studies, linguistics, history, geography, sociology, economics, politics, and material culture study) based on field work. It is desirable that the candidate has an interest in material culture and is motivated to engage in museum activities.
4. The selected candidate will be employed from April 1, 2018.
5. Employment status is based on work regulations pertaining to working hours, holidays, and leave for staff of NIHU. The Discretionary Labor System for Professional Work is applied to the selected candidate.
6. Salaries and allowances will be based on salary regulations for staff of NIHU.
7. Insurance of the National Public Service Mutual Aid Association, employment insurance, and industrial accident compensation insurance are applied to the selected candidate.
8. Requirements
 - (1) A Ph.D. or equivalent academic or other experience
 - (2) The ability to communicate in English and Japanese.

9. Process

Interviews will be conducted following the selection of candidates based on documentation. Invitations to interviews are tentatively scheduled in early February, 2018. Travel and accommodation expenses will not be provided.

10. Required Documentation

- (1) An application for employment at the National Museum of Ethnology (see A4 form 1 attached)
- (2) Resume (with photograph attached) (see A4 form 2 attached)
- (3) Full list of academic achievements (see A4 form 3)
- (4) Copies of up to five principal publications or theses. (Doctoral thesis may be included) Publications in a language other than Japanese must be accompanied by abstracts in Japanese.
- (5) Summary of main academic achievements (A4, single-spaced, two pages or less, free format)
- (6) Plans or intentions for future research and other activities that reflect and understanding of international trends. Academic activities inside and outside Japan should be included in the research plan (A4, single-spaced, two pages or less, free format)
- (7) One letter of recommendation (A4, free format)

11. Deadline

The application must arrive at our address by December 28, 2017.

12. Address

Applications should be sent by registered mail to the Recruiting Committee, National Museum of Ethnology, 10-1 Senri Banpaku Koen, Suita City, Osaka 565-8511, Japan in an envelope clearly marked in red as "Application Documents".

Application documents will not be returned to applicants. (However, they will be returned upon request. In such case, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope together with the request for return of documents, or include a completed "pay on delivery" form of commercial parcel delivery (takuhaibin).

Note on personal data:

Personal information provided in response to this public recruiting notice will be seen only by those involved in the selection process. Once a decision is made, all personal information pertaining to individuals other than the successful candidate will be destroyed. Information about the successful candidate will be retained for use in administration, work assignment, salary processing and other processes related to research and educational activities at the museum.

13. Contact information

For inquiries, please contact the Recruiting Committee, National Museum of Ethnology by email.

E-Mail: kobo-jinji 'at' idc.minpaku.ac.jp * Please replace 'at' with @